Hussey's New "Hard Metal" Plows are celebrated for their superior turning capacity, easy draft, ease in holding, strength and durability. They are rapidly taking the place of steel as they draw as easily, scour in any soil, are more durable and cost a great deal less. Also sole manufacturer of Hussey's Centennial Horse Hoe and Cultivator combined—the best implement yet invented to make planting and hoeing easy.

Send for full description and prices FREE.

Also Agent for the CENTENNIAL SWIVEL PLOW, superior to any other for Level Land and Hillside.

Agent for the NEW CHAMPION MOWER.

I have sold these Mowers for three years, and all have given perfect satisfaction.

REPORT

OF THE
SUPERINTENDING SCHOOL COMMITTEE OF THE TOWN OF RAYMOND.

DISTRICT NO. 1.

Whole length of school, 18 weeks. Teacher, Miss Olive B. Hazelton, of Chester.

Miss Hezelton is a teacher of considerable experience, and her school evinced that she understands the work for the school-room. She succeeded in interesting her pupils, and won and held their good will.

With this principal key to success in teaching, and her good capacity for instructing, substantial work was done and fine improvement made by the scholars to the satisfaction of all.

DISTRICT NO. 2.

Whole length of school, 16 weeks. Teacher, Miss Lilla S. Walcott, of Raymond.

A love for teaching, and enthusiasm, are characteristics of the teacher, giving to her labors good results.

Thoroughness was undoubtedly her aim, with the best intentions. Though such an aim is indispensable to a good scholar, yet it admits of limit. It is not well to put a scholar back to secure thoroughness, if the circumstances are such as to discourage, enough to destroy interest, and thus hinder progress. But with Miss Walcott's earnest work, profitable advancement was made on the whole, and general satisfaction given.

DISTRICT NO. 3.

Whole length of school, 21 weeks. Teacher, Miss Adda Lake, of Deerfield.

This lady has long been a teacher in the true sense of the word, and knows the work of teaching in all its parts, and can execute it. Her innate ability in this matter, was well illustrated in this school by the fine appearance of the scholars, at different visits to the school, and at its close. Under her judicious management and instruction, a very desirable degree of progress was made by the pupils in concrete ideas and practical knowledge, which reflects much credit upon both teacher and scholars, and meets with entire satisfaction of the district.

DISTRICT NO. 4.

Whole length of school, 11.1 weeks. Teacher, Mr. Daniel N. Lane, Jr., of Raymond.

This is Mr. Laue's native district, and of course he must have an interest in it. This was expressly exhibited by all the scholars, as they by their whole appearance attested to a clear comprehension of, and solid acquirements in the principles of their text-books, and many points of general knowledge outside, rendered by clear and most beneficial teaching.

DISTRICT NO. 5.

Whole length of school, 8 weeks. Teacher, Miss Dora A. Abbott, of Raymond.

This district has no school-house, and though the school is as well provided for, perhaps, as any school could be in a private room, yet there is a disadvantage in this respect for a teacher to labor under. Miss Abbott has just commenced teaching, but displays good qualifications for the business, which, with the advantage of experience and more firmness, I think will make her a very desirable and useful teacher. Her school was doing well when I visited it, but misunderstanding the time for its close, was not present at the examination, but doubt not that good improvement was made.

DISTRICT NO. 6.

Whole length of school, 18 weeks. Teacher, Miss Mary I. Dearborn, of Candia.

This lady possesses a dignity, with pleasant manners, very becoming and helpful to a teacher. She works conscientiously for the good of her scholars, giving her whole care to her charge. But however much one teacher or another may do for a school, unless sustained by united reciprocal influences, the designed effect of their labors will be more or less destroyed. But Miss Dearborn's examinations were both good, and told that faithful work had been done.

DISTRICT NO. 7.

Whole length of school, 20 weeks. Teacher, Summer Term, Miss Abbie M. Sumner, of Boston.

Miss Sumner has all the accomplishments of a first-class teacher. Her method of instructing is clear and productive to the pupil. The school was prospering under her charge when I visited it, but not receiving the notice of the examination, was not present. I should say however, the results were good, as the next term opened with the school in good condition.

Teacher, Fall Term, Miss Nellie E. McClure, of Raymond.

The cultured and graceful manner of this lady, commanded the love and respect of her pupils, and rendered the school interesting and pleasing in its whole appearance. She has the enviable faculty of making the school-room a happy little home to its inmates, and the duty of studying something agreeable and pleasant, rather than to be dreaded. The examination was gratifying in a high degree. Though this was Miss McClure's first trial in teaching, it was a success, and her refining and instructive influence is very desirable in any community.

DISTRICT NO. 8, PRIMARY DEPARTMENT.

Whole length of school, 14 weeks. Teacher, Miss Emma L. Tucker, of Deerfield.

Taking into account the large number of small children, and the allowance that must always be made for beginners, the work of this school is harder, on the whole, than that of any other. Miss Tucker being very considerate of the needs of children, and thorough in her teaching, accomplished good results by her labors. The examination of her scholars the first term, denoted very commendable progress. A good beginning was made the second term, but sickness in the district prevented an examination.

GRAMMAR DEPARTMENT.

Teacher, Mr. John T. Bartlett, of Deerfield.

Mr. Bartlett's teaching, I think, tends to reach the available matter in the course pursued, rather than the quantity, and his scholars have always given evidence of a good knowledge of what they have studied, and the training of their faculties for practical purposes. This is desirable, but if the same thoroughness could be used with more ground, it would be advisable for this school. Sickness caused the second term to be closed without an examination, but the length of time Mr. Bartlett has had charge of the school, speaks for his credit as a teacher.

DISTRICT NO. 9.

Whole length of school, 11 weeks. Teacher, Miss Anna L. Hazelton, of Chester.

Here we found a teacher alive to the work in every respect. As every teacher ought to do, she evidently has made the business a study, and thus comes to the field prepared for whatever is before her. With ready material and quick perceptions, she awakens and holds the interest of her pupils, so that to study and advance, become a love and a zeal with them. The school was opened well, and continued in a prosperous condition to the close. The examination was highly satisfactory, and made very entertaining by prompt and accurate recitations, replete with understanding, also by brilliant and most useful exercises by the school. The progress made, could not fail to meet with a full appreciation of all.

DISTRICT NO. 10.

Whole length of school, 14 weeks. Teacher, Summer Term, Miss Jennie A. Palmer, of Candia.

This was Miss Palmer's first school, and it was a good beginning. There were but four regular scholars, yet she manifested much natural skill in teaching, and occupied all the time. Her explanations are clear, and the scholars made excellent progress under her thorough drill.

Teacher, Fall Term, Miss Carrie B. Hazelton, of Chester.

So small a school as this does not naturally call forth so much vigor and energy as a large school does, but since there can be but one thing done at any time, whatever the circumstances, earnestness should always give its influence. Miss Hazelton was interested and conscientious in her work, and the examination gave evidence of improvement.

GENERAL REMARKS.

Citizens of Raymond: A large number of classes is always hazardous to any school, and a great object in making exchange of text books was to produce uniformity and thus facilitate classification. The exchange was made where the greatest mixture was found, proving, I think, beneficial to the schools and, I hope, satisfactory to the public.

School houses have been found in good condition, and well furnished, with the exception of District No. 5, which has no house, and No. 3, which is to have a new one the coming year. Schools have been short; the average length to each school for the year being only about fifteen weeks. It is true that a long school with a poor teacher is nearly worthless, but with a good teacher it is valuable in proportion to the length, if not too long. On the whole, Prudential Committees have been unusually fortunate in securing teachers the past year, and, in my judgment, a greater amount of money could have been advantageously expended on schools. For the most part, good order has been sustained, and the different branches very well taught. Although improvement might have been made in the methods of teaching, in some respects, more particularly in geography and grammar than in other studies, yet the results accruing from the instruction can be utilized to a good degree, and schools generally have been left in good standing.

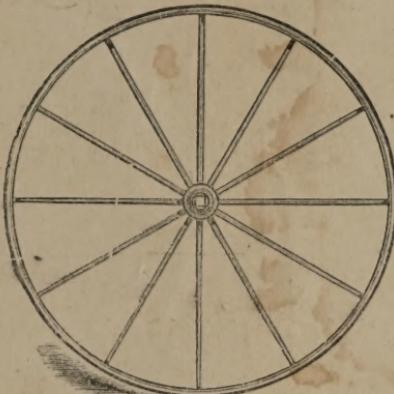

There is good talent to be found in all the districts, in some it is more than ordinary. But whether great or small, the community needs it, and too much interest cannot be taken in cultivating it. Since the common schools must lay the foundations of all useful organizations, whether town, state or national, it must be for the welfare of any town to well support her schools, that a firm foundation may be laid for the coming generation to become reliable and competent citizens, and be properly fitted to take up and execute the duties, moral and official, that must eventually be committed to their charge.

Respectfully submitted,
MARTHA F. SCRIBNER,
Supt. School Committee.
